

TOM MUTEBI

With over 20 years of experience in journalism, Tom Mutebi has established himself as a versatile and dedicated media professional.

Tom began his career as a News Reporter with UBC TV/UBC Radio, where he honed his skills in news reporting and co-hosted various radio programs. His passion for storytelling led him to join The New Vision, where he reported on diverse beats including general news, courts, and features. During this time, he also contributed feature stories to Bukedde newspaper, showcasing his ability to engage audiences across platforms.

In his next chapter, Tom joined the newsroom of the now-defunct WBS TV, where he expanded his expertise in visual storytelling as a camera specialist. After the closure of WBS TV, he ventured into private practice, co-founding Media Africa. The company specializes in producing impactful documentaries, visual commercial advertisements, and in-depth special reports, reflecting Tom's commitment to quality media production.

In addition to his media career, Tom is a thriving entrepreneur. He has successfully conducted business with schools, supplying foodstuffs and uniforms, and has embraced agriculture as a new frontier. Currently, he is establishing a cocoa and coffee farm, combining his entrepreneurial spirit with a vision for sustainable farming. Tom's journey exemplifies a blend of creativity, adaptability, and a drive to make meaningful contributions across industries.
